A lot of attorneys and firms will sit back and say to themselves, "we're just not that advanced", or "we're not a large firm", so "do we need these services"? The answer is YES. It's not your size or experience that fully dictates what you need, but the regulations of your industry. Certainly size and experience dictate some of what you need, but don't all firms need reliable systems in order to do their jobs more effectively?

Transformyx is also accustomed to managing existing vendor relationships with its clients. This means that we sign on with our clients as their outsourced CIO and this allows us to manage issues as they arise, secure a resolution, and report back to you when those systems are back at 100%.

We have been able to give our clients back the time they have been losing to frustrating technology issues. A few minutes per professional per day can lead to thousands of dollars in additional billing. More reliable client communication leads to trusted relationships and increased referrals.

You worry about providing excellent service and advice to your clients. Allow Transformyx to assure your technology investment keeps up with your business needs and goals. After all, you wouldn't have your clients using pre-packaged legal documents, or tax preparation software. If they want superior service and advice, they come to the experts.
